AN INTRODUCTION TO THE PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION.

By JOHN CAIRD, D.D.,

Principal and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Glasgow, and one of her Majesty's Chaplains for Scotland.

"It is a remarkable book in many ways—remarkable in the fact that it proceeds from the pen of a Scottish clergyman bred in the Presbyterianism of Scotland, nurtured on the metaphysics of the Scottish school, and on the theology of the Westminster Confession. It is remarkable also for its marvellous power of exposition and graceful subtlety of thought. Hegel's solution of the problem of religion is at length adequately represented in English literature. Hegelianism has never appeared so attractive as it appears in the clear and fluent pages of Principal Caird."—Spectator, May 29.

"The Hegelian system of religion has never before, in this country, found an expounder as masterly and eloquent as Principal Caird."—Dundee Advertiser.

"Principal Caird's 'Introduction to the Philosophy of Religion' is a singular phenomenon. No book of the kind has ever, we believe, proceeded from the Scottish press; able and eloquent it undoubtedly is."—Aberdeen Free Press.

"This volume is no light reading, and is the result of very tough thinking; it deals with the most subtle points of scientific and metaphysical thought, discusses complex and perplexing philosophical questions, and enunciates a new ontological theory in turn. Let us say, at once, that the work is able, that it contains much acute criticism and ingenious thinking, and throughout there is an absence of narrowness of thought and dogmatism in tone, and there are no traces of the peculiar accent of any church or creed."—Scotsman.

MARY ANERLEY: a Yorkshire Story.

By R. D. BLACKMORE, Author of "Lorna Doone," "Aliso Lorraine," "Ondock Nowell," &c. 3 vols., crown 8vo, 31s. 6d.

"One of his happiest productions. It is full of the fine touches of observation and description, whether of people or of places, that have belonged to most of his novels, and there is a strong dramatic interest to be found in it. In this respect indeed, as in others, there is as much matter in 'Mary Anerley' as would make a dozen ordinary novels. . . . We have found it impossible to dwell upon more than a few of the many sides belonging to this remarkable book, the pathetic passages of which are not less striking than the humorous or dramatic touches and descriptions which abound in it."—Saturday Review.

SUBSCRIPTIONS CAN COMMENCE FROM ANY DATE.

The Directors beg to inform the Subscribers to the Circulating Library that a constant endeavour will be made to provide a punctual and ample supply of all new works of interest and authority; and in order to carry out this intention efficiently, they must rely in some measure upon the co-operation and assistance of the Subscribers themselves. It is notorious that a large number of new books of a wholly trivial character are now put into circulation, for which there is no real demand, and the publication of such works is in many instances only rendered possible by the system upon which Circulating Libraries have hitherto been conducted. The expenditure upon works of this class will be strictly curtailed, and the funds will be applied as far as possible to the purchase and circulation of books of a higher order and a really popular character, such as the majority of readers are anxious to obtain upon the date of their publication. The Directors trust by this means to render the Circulating Library, in the truest sense of the word, select, while they will seek at the same time to avoid the kind of interested and arbitrary censorship that has been found alike vexatious to authors and the public.

All the Books in the Library are available for Subscribers, without distinction as to amounts of Subscription.
